

Accessing Home and Community based Services: A Playbook for Healthcare Providers

The long-term care journey can often benefit from high quality home and community based services. Healthcare providers play a central role in connecting their patients to the appropriate service and providers. What programs are available to help people who require long-term care stay in their home? This CE will explore home and community based services offered through Georgia Medicaid as well as provide resources for such issues as transportation, care management and placement.
