

The Nuts and Bolts Guide to Veterans Benefits:

An introductory tour of the Special Monthly Pension available for Wartime veterans and/or surviving spouses who are 65 or older OR permanently and totally disabled.

Updated: January 19, 2018

Most people think of veterans benefits as being only for service men and women who were wounded or disabled while serving in the armed forces. By and large, that is true; however, there are substantial benefits that may be available to wartime veterans who are now senior citizens and are facing the burden of long-term care due to a host of diseases such as Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, MS, Lou Gehrig's disease, and many others. In fact, the Veterans Administration estimates that millions of wartime veterans and their spouses may be eligible for these benefits, called Special Monthly Pension benefits, and not even be aware of it.

Wartime veterans, or their surviving spouses, become eligible for the Special Monthly Pension benefit when they are over 65 years of age, are permanently disabled and unable to work, are homebound, or need the regular aid and attendance of another, whether at home, in assisted/supportive living, or in a nursing home. The program is based on actual financial need for assistance, so there are income and asset limitations.

Unfortunately, there is widespread misunderstanding regarding how to determine qualification for this important benefit. It is the goal of this Nuts and Bolts Guide to give you a start in understanding the ins and outs and the ups and downs of the VA benefit maze commonly referred to as "Aid and Attendance." Even though finding your way through the maze can be extremely difficult, it is worth the effort.

The maximum benefit available can provide significant help in paying for long-term care costs, for either a veteran or surviving spouse.

There are only three types of persons who are authorized to provide a veteran with assistance filing a claim for veterans' benefits:

1. An attorney licensed to practice law in your state
2. A veterans' service organization such as VFW, American Legion, Amvets, etc.
3. A state or county official of the Department of Veterans Affairs in your state.

Any of these organizations previously described must have an individual who has been accredited by the General Counsel of the VA to file claims. Unfortunately, there are few attorneys who have knowledge in this particular area of legal practice due to the fact that it is illegal to charge a veteran a legal fee for providing assistance in filing a claim for benefits. Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs) are often hard-pressed to have sufficient resources to assist multiple generations of veterans, so it is often difficult for a veteran or his/her surviving spouse to get help in filing a claim. Sadly, the Knight-Ridder Newspapers reported on December 30, 2005, that "a veteran who turns to the VA for information about veteran's benefits might want to get a second opinion. According to the VA's own data, people who call the agency's regional offices for help and advice are more likely to receive completely wrong answers than completely right ones."

The only other common source of information regarding this benefit generally comes from annuity salespeople who often offer to consult with veterans and their families for free. This “free” offer is based on the strategy of counseling the veteran to meet the asset and income limitations of the benefit by buying an annuity and giving away their assets to their children. The offer is that the annuity sales organization will assist the veteran in filing for the VA benefit claim. They also promise to provide any necessary estate planning work at no charge. In reality, the annuity salesperson is being compensated by the annuity company for selling a financial product to the veteran. An annuity may be an excellent financial decision or a poor one, depending on the facts and circumstances. All we are saying is this: You should seek independent advice before making a decision to purchase an annuity.

A Medicaid trap...

Another important factor that one must consider when thinking about trying to meet the VA asset limitation test is that giving away cash or other things of value can create terrible problems for senior citizens if or when they later need to apply for Medicaid to help pay for nursing home care. Giving away assets can create a long penalty period of ineligibility for Medicaid benefits. Any senior facing long-term care needs to seek capable legal advice from an attorney who is skilled in the areas of estate planning, financial planning options, Medicaid, Medicare, income tax, and gift tax, as well as having experience regarding VA rules.

The big question for many families will be, “What will it cost me to seek advice in this area?” Although an attorney who chooses to actually file a claim for veteran’s benefits must do that portion of his/her work for free, the attorney may charge the usual fees related to any estate planning, financial planning options, Medicaid, Medicare, income tax, or gift tax work, as well as the determination of the financial suitability of filing for a veteran’s benefit claim. No one should pay an attorney fee unless receiving a fair return on his/her investment.

After reading this Nuts and Bolts Guide, we strongly recommend that you contact an elder law attorney such as those at Hurley Elder Care Law to determine if you qualify. An elder law attorney can assist you and your family by explaining many difficult to understand things about long-term care. Qualification for a VA benefit is only one of several concerns that must be considered. As you struggle to provide dignified long-term care for a wartime veteran and/or surviving spouse, we can help you understand the options. We are your advocates, and we want to help you stretch your hard-earned dollars further. VA benefits are only one part of the puzzle. We will hold your hand and guide you every step of the way as we consider all of your family’s resources and needs.

Veterans Administration

Compensation and Pension Benefits

There are many types of VA benefits available to veterans through the Veterans Administration for things such as education, life insurance, health care, home loans and burial benefits. Two major categories of benefits, however, are compensation and pension.

Service-Connected Disability COMPENSATION

Compensation is a benefit that veterans receive when the veteran has a disability caused by, or exacerbated by, military service. Disability compensation is available to a qualified veteran regardless of his or her level of income. Once a veteran can show disability due to military service, a level of disability is rated by the Veterans Administration, (for example, 20% disabled), and the amount of compensation paid depends on the rating assigned. A veteran can apply for increases in the percent rating should the condition worsen. A rating above 100% disabled will qualify the veteran for special monthly compensation that could more than double the normal benefit. During 2018, monthly compensation payments ranged from $136.24 for a veteran with no dependents and a 10% disability rating, to $3,139.67 for a veteran with a spouse and a 100% disability rating.

Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) is paid to survivors of deceased veterans if the death was due to a service-related injury or illness. Eligible survivors include spouses who have not remarried and unmarried children under 18 years old. Disabled children are also eligible, as are children up to 23 years old who are attending school. Monthly DIC payments are $1,283.11 per month.

Non-Service-Connected Disability PENSION

A pension is a benefit for veterans with low incomes who are permanently and totally disabled, when that disability is not related to military service. This is sometimes referred to as a “Special Monthly Pension” or sometimes an “Improved Pension.” Veterans will be considered permanently and totally disabled if they are: (1) a patient in a nursing home for long-term care because of disability; (2) receiving Social Security disability benefits; (3) unemployable as a result of a disability that is reasonably certain to continue throughout their life; or (4) suffering from any disease or disorder that renders them permanently and totally disabled as determined by the Secretary of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

In 2018, the maximum disability pension rate for a veteran with no dependents is $13,166, or $1,097 per month. The rate for a veteran with one dependent, or for two veterans married to each other is $17,241, or $1,436 per month. Each additional dependent child adds $2,250, or $187 per month, to the pension.

The VA pays a death pension to low-income surviving spouses and unmarried dependent children of deceased wartime veterans. In order to be eligible, a spouse must not have remarried, and a dependent must be under age 18, or must be under age 23 if attending a VA-approved school. Dependents who are permanently incapable of self-support because of disability before age 18 are also eligible for the death pension. For 2018, the maximum death pension for a surviving spouse is $8,830, or $735 per month. If the spouse has a dependent child, the maximum pension is $11,557, or $963 per month. If the spouse has more than one dependent child, the benefit for each dependent child is $2,250, or $187 per month.

The amount of the Special Monthly Pension will be increased if the permanently disabled veteran is also housebound. A person is housebound if they are permanently and totally disabled and, either (1) have an additional disability or disabilities ratable at 60% or more; or (2) are substantially confined to their residence or the immediate premises due to a disability that is reasonably certain to remain throughout their lifetime. In 2018, the maximum pension for a housebound veteran with no dependents is $16,089, or $1,340 per month. If the housebound veteran has one dependent, the maximum pension is $20,166, or $1,680 per month. If a surviving spouse is housebound, the maximum pension is $10,792, or $899 per month. With a dependent child, the maximum pension is $13,514 or $1,126 per month. Again, each additional dependent will increase the pension $2,250, or $187 per month.

If the veteran is in need of regular aid and attendance, the maximum Special Monthly Pension is increased further to $21,962, or $1,830 per month if the veteran has no dependents. With one dependent, the maximum pension is $26,036, or $2,169 per month. If the surviving spouse is in need of regular aid and attendance, the maximum pension is $14,113, or $1,176 per month. If the surviving spouse has a dependent child the maximum pension is $16,837, or $1,403 per month. Again, each additional dependent will increase the pension $2,250, or $187 per month. To be in need of regular aid and attendance, the veteran or spouse must be permanently and totally disabled and (1) a patient in a nursing home; (2) blind, or nearly blind; or (3) needing the regular aid and attendance of another person to perform basic activities of daily living, such as dressing, bathing, and attending to the wants of nature.

Attaining age 65 – Service Pension

A low-income, wartime veteran who attains the age of 65 is also entitled to a pension, known as a Service Pension, whether or not he/she is disabled. The amount of the maximum pension is the same as the Special Monthly Pension.

Low-Income and Net Worth Requirements

In order to be eligible to receive any of the above non-service connected PENSIONS, the veteran must meet income and net worth requirements. First, the annual maximum pension amount is decreased, dollar for dollar, by the veteran's countable income. Income that is countable is, in general: all of the veteran's income, including that of any dependents, MINUS unreimbursed medical expenses. Unreimbursed medical expenses include doctor's fees, dentist's fees, prescription glasses, Medicare premiums and co-payments, prescriptions, insurance premiums, transportation to physicians' offices, and the costs of assisted living facilities or in-home aides. (See list on page 17 of this guide.)

So, for example, if a single veteran has $20,000 in annual income and $10,000 in annual unreimbursed medical expenses, his/her countable income is $10,000. The $10,000 in countable income is deducted from the maximum annual Special Monthly Pension of $13,166 for a benefit of $3,166. As another example, suppose the veteran is in a nursing home (and so qualifies for the additional pension for aid and attendance) and has an income of $50,000. If the unreimbursed medical expense for the nursing home is $5,000 per month, or $60,000, the veteran's countable income is negative $10,000. Any negative income is counted as an income of $0 and the veteran will be eligible for the maximum annual Special Monthly Pension for aid and attendance of $21,962.

In addition to low income, the veteran must also have a limited net worth. The VA has not specifically defined "limited net worth" however, a general guide is that the veteran must have a net worth lower than $50,000 if single, or $80,000 if married. A veteran's net worth is calculated by adding all the value of all personal and real property owned by the veteran (and his or her spouse), not including a home and car. Items included in the calculation of a veteran's net worth would include things such as CDs, savings accounts and bonds.

Veterans Benefits at a Glance:

The focus of this Nuts and Bolts Guide is the “non-service-connected pension” which may provide money to assist a wartime veteran or surviving spouse who now faces substantial medical costs due to Alzheimer’s, Parkinson’s, MS or other “non-service-connected” diseases.

Table 1: Disability Compensation

VETERAN

- Must have a disability caused by, or worsened by, military duty
- The amount of money paid to the veteran is not based on need/income/net worth of the veteran.

SPOUSE/DEPENDENTS

- Eligible for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC).

Table 2: Non-Service-Connected Pension

VETERAN

- Must be permanently and totally disabled, or 65 or older
- Disability does not have to be related to military duty
- Pension is needs-based so must meet income and net worth requirements; or
- If the veteran has too much income or too many assets, he/she will not qualify for the pension
- A higher pension is awarded if the veteran is housebound
- An even higher pension if the veteran is in need of regular aid and attendance.

SPOUSE/DEPENDENTS

- Eligible for Death Pension
- A higher pension is awarded if the spouse is housebound
- An even higher pension if the spouse is in need of regular aid and attendance.

More Details...

Who is eligible for the non-service-connected pension?

- Honorably discharged veterans, surviving spouses, or children of any military, naval, or air service. Also includes certain other special groups such as:
 - Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (WAAC)
 - Merchant Marines from WWII
 - U.S. civilians of the American Field Service
 - Plus 30 more! See list on page 13.
- Served in active duty 90 consecutive days, one of which was during a period of war
- At least 65 years old OR "Permanently and Totally Disabled."

"Permanently and Totally Disabled" is defined as:

- Receiving long-term nursing home care; or
- Receiving Social Security disability benefits; or
- Unemployable as a result of disability reasonably certain to continue throughout the life of the person.

The veteran's current disability does not need to have any connection to the veteran's actual time in the armed forces. (Non-service-connected disability can be Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, etc.)

Other requirements:

This is a needs-based program with income and asset tests.

- Income limitation
 - Gross income MINUS certain expenses
 - Unreimbursed medical expenses of veteran and his/her household
 - Certain educational expenses
 - After reducing gross income by the above expenses, net income must be lower than $8,830 to $26,036, depending on your circumstances
- Net worth limitation
 - In addition to your house, car, life insurance, burial policies, and annuities in payout status, you can generally have between $50,000 and $80,000 in assets, including CDs, stocks, bonds, etc.
 - If your net worth is higher, consult with a qualified attorney for an appropriate tax analysis to see if transferring some of your assets may qualify you.
